PART - I

(GENERAL ENGLISH)

Read the following passage carefully and answer the following questions from the options given below: (10x1=10)

We all seek happiness but few, very few indeed, get it. We are unhappy partly because we desire much more than what we can hope to attain. Our countless desires are hard to be satisfied and that is what makes us so sad in life.

The secret of happiness lies in the simplifications of life. Simple living encourages high thinking. It leads to contentment. Contentment gives inner wealth, the wealth of the mind and of the soul. A contented man device himself to virtues like truth, beauty, love, goodness, kindness and charity. By pursuing and inculcating these virtues, a man can feel true happiness. I do not mean that for simplification of life, a man should become an ascetic.

The happiness of a sadhu is of a negative kind. I want positive kind of happiness. For this I must live in the midst of life and faithfully carry out my responsibilities to my home and my country. But all this should be done in the spirit of selfless service. A man, who wants to lead a happy life, should also make others happy. In making others happy he will taste real and lasting happiness. There is a kind of joy in serving others with virtuous motives, in sacrificing what one has for the good of others. An act of goodness is of itself an act of happiness. The secret of perfect happiness lies in renunciation.

Wealth may give us joy for a while and fame may provide us with fleeting excitement. But they cannot give us permanent happiness, kings have everything to make them happy yet they feel unhappy. It is because they do not practice renunciation. There is a sense of joy in doing one's work honestly and efficiently. A research- worker feels joy in research and a journalist in writing. In doing one's duty sincerely, one finds peace of mind which is an important essence of happiness. It is only by cultivating spirit of renunciation, self-sacrifice, contentment and sincere work that one can really be happy. The stings of misfortune spare none, but they will not cow such a person.

- D) Faithfully carrying out responsibilities at home

Read the following passage and answer the following questions from the options given below: (5x1=5)

Soft bodied animals like caterpillars often fall prey to voracious hunters like birds or reptiles. Despite having no means to 'actively' defend themselves from their enemies, with weapons like claws or jaws, they have nevertheless, evolved other equally effective deterrents. A particular species of the caterpillar lives in an altitude over 2,500 meters in the Himalayas. It uses prominent colour to inform would be predators of its inedibility. In the event that an inexperienced or adventurous bird did eat the caterpillar, it would probably vomit it soon after and subsequently desist from attacking similar species in future. Though this would not do any good to the unfortunate victim, the species benefit. It's a rare example of the martyr among animals.

11. The expression 'other equally effective deterrents' mean-
